

ILKE ROLA

STUDIO SALE 2026 - 1.

After the studio sale, many of you asked, “Is there anything left? Can I still buy something?” The sale was a great success, but I’m not completely sold out yet! With some upcoming travel plans, that is the goal. On the one hand, I’d love to keep my artworks. On the other hand, my parents’ place, as a storage, does have its limits, and it’s much nicer when my work finds a beautiful home with you.

Every artwork is unique, so there is only one of each available. If there’s something you’d love to have, make sure not to wait too long!

If you’d like more information, dimensions, specifications, or if you’re interested in purchasing a piece, feel free to send me a message.

All artworks can be picked up or sent until July 31.

FAIR BY LAWS OF NATURE

Honest Tableware. Fair by Laws of Nature is a series of sculptural tableware, designed to distribute food through the force of gravity. If people do not always ensure a fair distribution of food, perhaps the laws of nature can.

BRONZE

I can't get enough of bronze glaze. These objects are small and manageable, but at the same time I dream of towering artworks that I could drench in this glaze.

CERAMIC FABRIC

These ceramic objects, with their fabric-like appearance, were created as models for a still life painting. Now that the painting is nearly finished, these objects can find a new place of their own.

RISOPRINT

Risograph printing is an environmentally friendly Japanese stencil-printing technique, comparable to a cross between screen printing and a photocopier. It uses semi transparent soy-based inks in vibrant colors and is ideal for posters, zines, and art prints. Each color is applied as a separate layer.
